

An apple from the teachers

We thank the voters for doing their part.
Now we all have to do ours.

The people have spoken, rejecting charter schools by nearly 60 percent and electing pro-public education legislators.

Now, we're looking forward to all of us – public school employees, families, and especially legislators – doing what it takes to keep Washington's public schools great.

That means funding voter-approved initiatives that reduce class size and improve the salaries of public school employees, fully funding our schools, and ensuring all students are given a variety of ways to demonstrate student achievement.

Believe.
Achieve.
Lead.

Brought to you by the 77,000 teachers and support professionals of the Washington Education Association.

Call your legislators and thank her for the work she does. Urge her to continue her support of public education.
