

SEATTLE UNISERV COUNCIL

Phyllis Campano, Seattle E A

My name is Phyllis Campano, I am a SPED Teacher and President of SEA. I would be honored to take SEA's voice to the state level, Seattle educators have become a strong force for public education. The fight for public education needs to be strengthened by the unity of the entire state. I would be honored to represent SEA's voice again and our strength to the state level, to continue to unify the voices of educators around the state and continue to fight for a truly equitable public education system for educators and students.

Shelly Hurley, Seattle E A

As a special education teacher and STAR mentor, I witnessed many things wrong with not only how SPS handles education but also with how the state views education and educators. As a member of the SEA Board of Governors I work to advocate for social justice for our students and educators. To accomplish this work, I have fought for equity for my colleagues and students on bargaining teams, on the Special Education Task Force and have had the honor of being the SEA chair of the SEA-SPS Partnership Committee, where we are working on ways to close the achievement gap and stop disproportionate discipline in SPS by working on educator and central office awareness around relationships and bias. I believe all members need to understand their rights and have a voice so I work to help my fellow educators understand their contracts and are treated with dignity and respect. For the last two years, I have been a WEA Board member and have lent my voice to the Human Civil Rights Committee in presenting professional development and helping locals create Diversity Plans. I feel my work has just started and I am asking you to let me continue the important work of organizing and advocating at the State level, as I bring the celebrations and concerns of Seattle educators to WEA while working for all educators in the state.

Gwendolyn Jimerson, Seattle E A

Gwendolyn Jimerson has represented educators well as a WEA Board of Directors for Seattle EA. She has worked tirelessly on several committees, representing not only ESP perspectives but also as a woman of color, what we can do as an organization to address the racial and cultural biases that exist in our educational system. She is a trained instructor for Cultural Diversity in the Classroom and has brought her leadership within WEA to share with other members across the state. Please vote for Gwendolyn Jimerson for a second two-year term as a Seattle Uniserve Council Representative on the WEA Board of Directors.
